THE ~~UNCENSORED~~ LIBRARY

RSF REPORTERS
WITHOUT BORDERS

01

In many countries, the internet is controlled by oppressive leaders.

A photograph of three young people standing on a rooftop, looking out over a dense urban landscape. The person on the left is wearing a dark jacket and holding a blue plastic bag. The person in the middle is wearing a dark jacket and jeans. The person on the right is wearing a dark jacket, a red and white patterned scarf, and red pants with yellow stripes. The background shows a vast city with many high-rise buildings under a clear sky.

02

Young people in particular grow up in these systems with almost no access to free press, and their opinions are heavily influenced by disinformation campaigns.

03

But where almost all media is blocked or controlled, the world's most successful computer game, Minecraft, is still accessible.

A screenshot from the game Minecraft showing a vast landscape with a river, stone terraces, and distant mountains under a blue sky with clouds.

04

An open world game,
where millions of players
around the world meet every day. Offering unlimited freedom – even in countries
without press freedom.

Reporters Without Borders (RSF) uses this loophole
to bypass internet censorship:

THE ~~UNCENSORED~~ LIBRARY

The digital home of press freedom.

07

On March 12, the “World Day Against Cyber Censorship,”
The Uncensored Library
will open its doors.

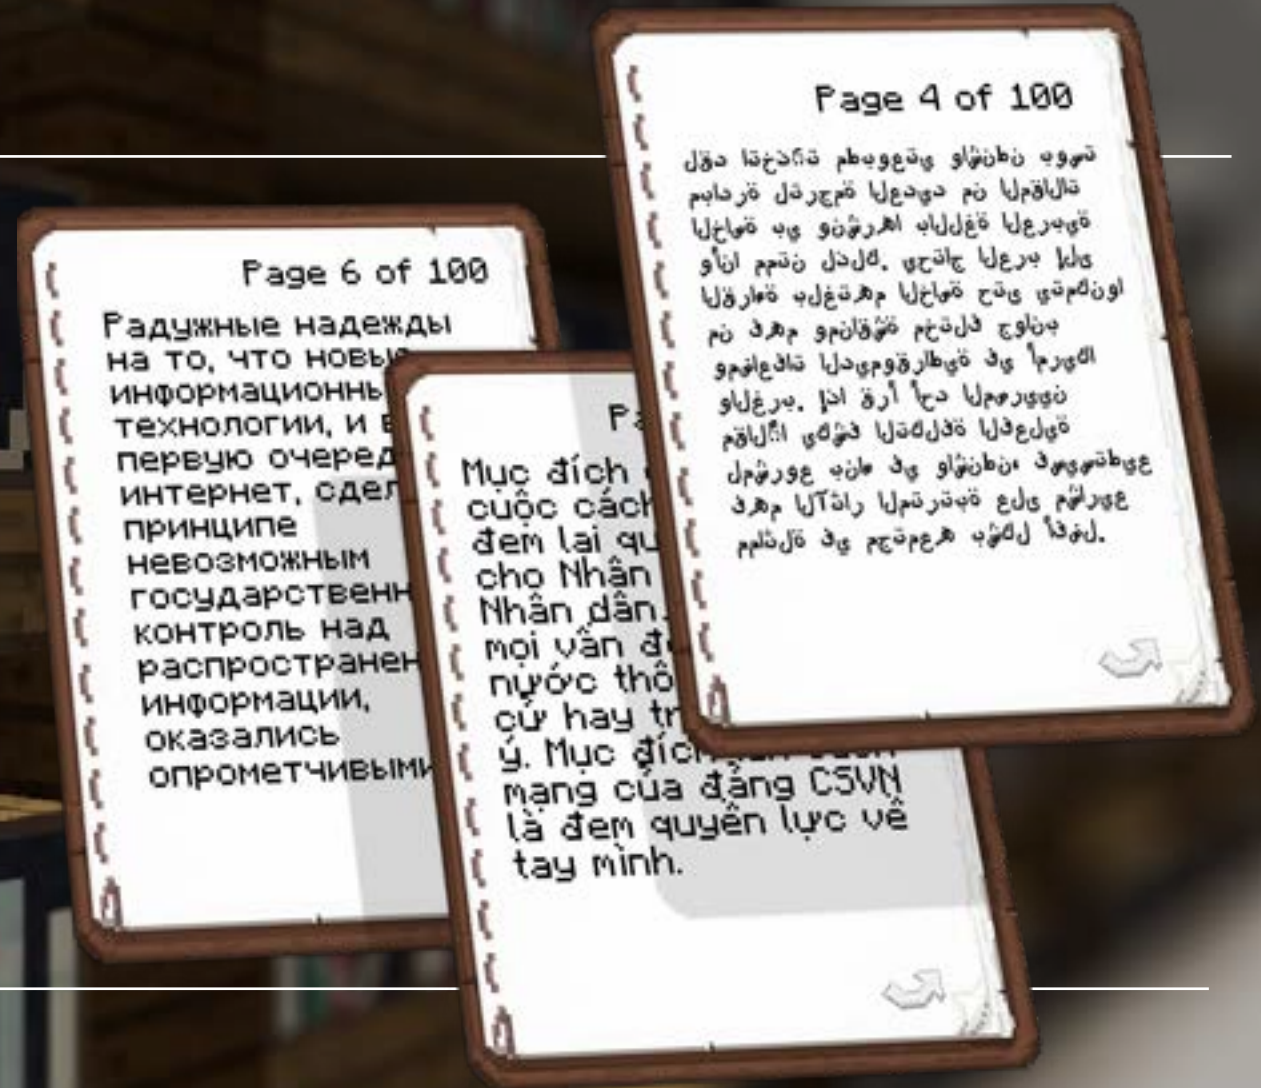

Journalists from different countries, despite having been banned, jailed, exiled and even killed, will now have a place to make their voices heard again.

The labyrinth of truth: highlighting Vietnam's growing effort to make access to the truth as hard as possible.

09

Their forbidden articles will be republished in Minecraft books within the game, informing readers about the real political situation in their countries.

10

This gives young people around the world access to independent information, through a medium they can playfully interact with.

11

Let's empower the next generation to stand up for their right to information and give them a powerful tool to fight oppressive leaders: knowledge.

12

Together we will show the world that the truth
can never be silenced!
